BARNSTAR! CONCERT

Saturday, November 9 - $22 M, $24 NM

Barnstar! began as the brainchild of Zachariah Hickman (bassist for Josh Ritter, musical director for Ray Lamontagne) for a local bluegrass supergroup featuring some of Boston’s best musicians and songwriters. Using the familiar tools of the genre—guitar (Mark Erelli), fiddle (Jake Armerding), mandolin (Taylor Armerding) and banjo (Charlie Rose)—Barnstar! forges its own brand of songbased bluegrass, gloriously harmonized and raucously played.

Each of the group’s members is a multi-instrumentalist, but with each member limiting himself to his native instrument they can make a song roar and soar, or whisper and lilt with equal intensity. Though collectively they share over 80 years of professional experience, it is exciting to hear a group of seasoned musicians coming to a new project as equals, sharing lead vocal duties and switching harmony registers to cover whatever part is needed.

The band debuted in 2011 with C’mon!, a mix of distinctive originals and unexpected covers (Neil Young, Dawes, The Traveling Wilburys) cut live in the studio. “We got our start by showcasing our newfound chemistry and how excited we were to take a break from supporting other artists to work on our own project,” says Erelli of their self-released debut.

Despite juggling various high-profile sideman gigs behind other artists, the lads in Barnstar! managed to cause quite a stir with relatively few appearances.

In February 2015, Barnstar! proudly unleashed its sophomore release Sit Down! Get Up! Get Out! (Signature Sounds), which sports a more richly textured sound than its predecessor. The band stretched out and started exploring darker themes and finding the joy amidst life’s trails and tribulations. “What continues to define Barnstar!,” says Zachariah Hickman, the band’s mustachioed leader and producer of the group’s albums, “is that we’re not singing songs as an excuse to play a solo. We like to sink our teeth into songs that have a narrative or a story to them, and then make them our own.”

Up until now, the members of Barnstar! may have been best known by the company they keep as sidemen and accompanists. But suddenly, Barnstar! has become a household name! Don’t miss their first appearance at the Club!

COFFEEHOUSE – SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16

$9 Members and Open Mic Performers, $10 Non-members

Ron Williams - Ron’s music is from the Great American Songbook - meaning it includes jazz, R&B, sixties soul, 70’s rock, Cole Porter, Toto, Frank Sinatra, Fats or John Cougar. If it’s good music, he peels off the label and puts it in his bag. Ron accompanies his smooth singing with a finger-style, acoustic-electric guitar. Ron continues to be a frequent performer at various venues in the Cape area and currently lives in Chatham where he teaches voice and guitar.

Andrew Sexton - Although Andrew Sexton loves Hank Williams, Muddy Waters and the rock n roll pioneers, his first attempts at playing music came from going to Boston area folk clubs and attending the Newport Folk Festival. Dylan was a huge early songwriting influence as well as Tim Hardin and Van Morrison, but he’s always had “big ears” and listened to all kinds of music. Andrew understands categories are useful for marketing purposes, but they can hinder musical exploration and appreciation. He endeavors to make music that reflects elements of folk, jazz, blues and more. Hope you can dig it.

Open Mic-some after the opener, some after the break.
